FIND NEW PLACES TO HIKE & CAMP

PROBLEM

---

Finding a good place to go hiking and camping can be really time consuming as an individual or as a group.

Many campsites have their own websites for information such as facilities, campground space, and reservations.

Finding online reviews of a location is most likely found on a third party website and the user will have to switch through tabs to view location information and to make a reservation.

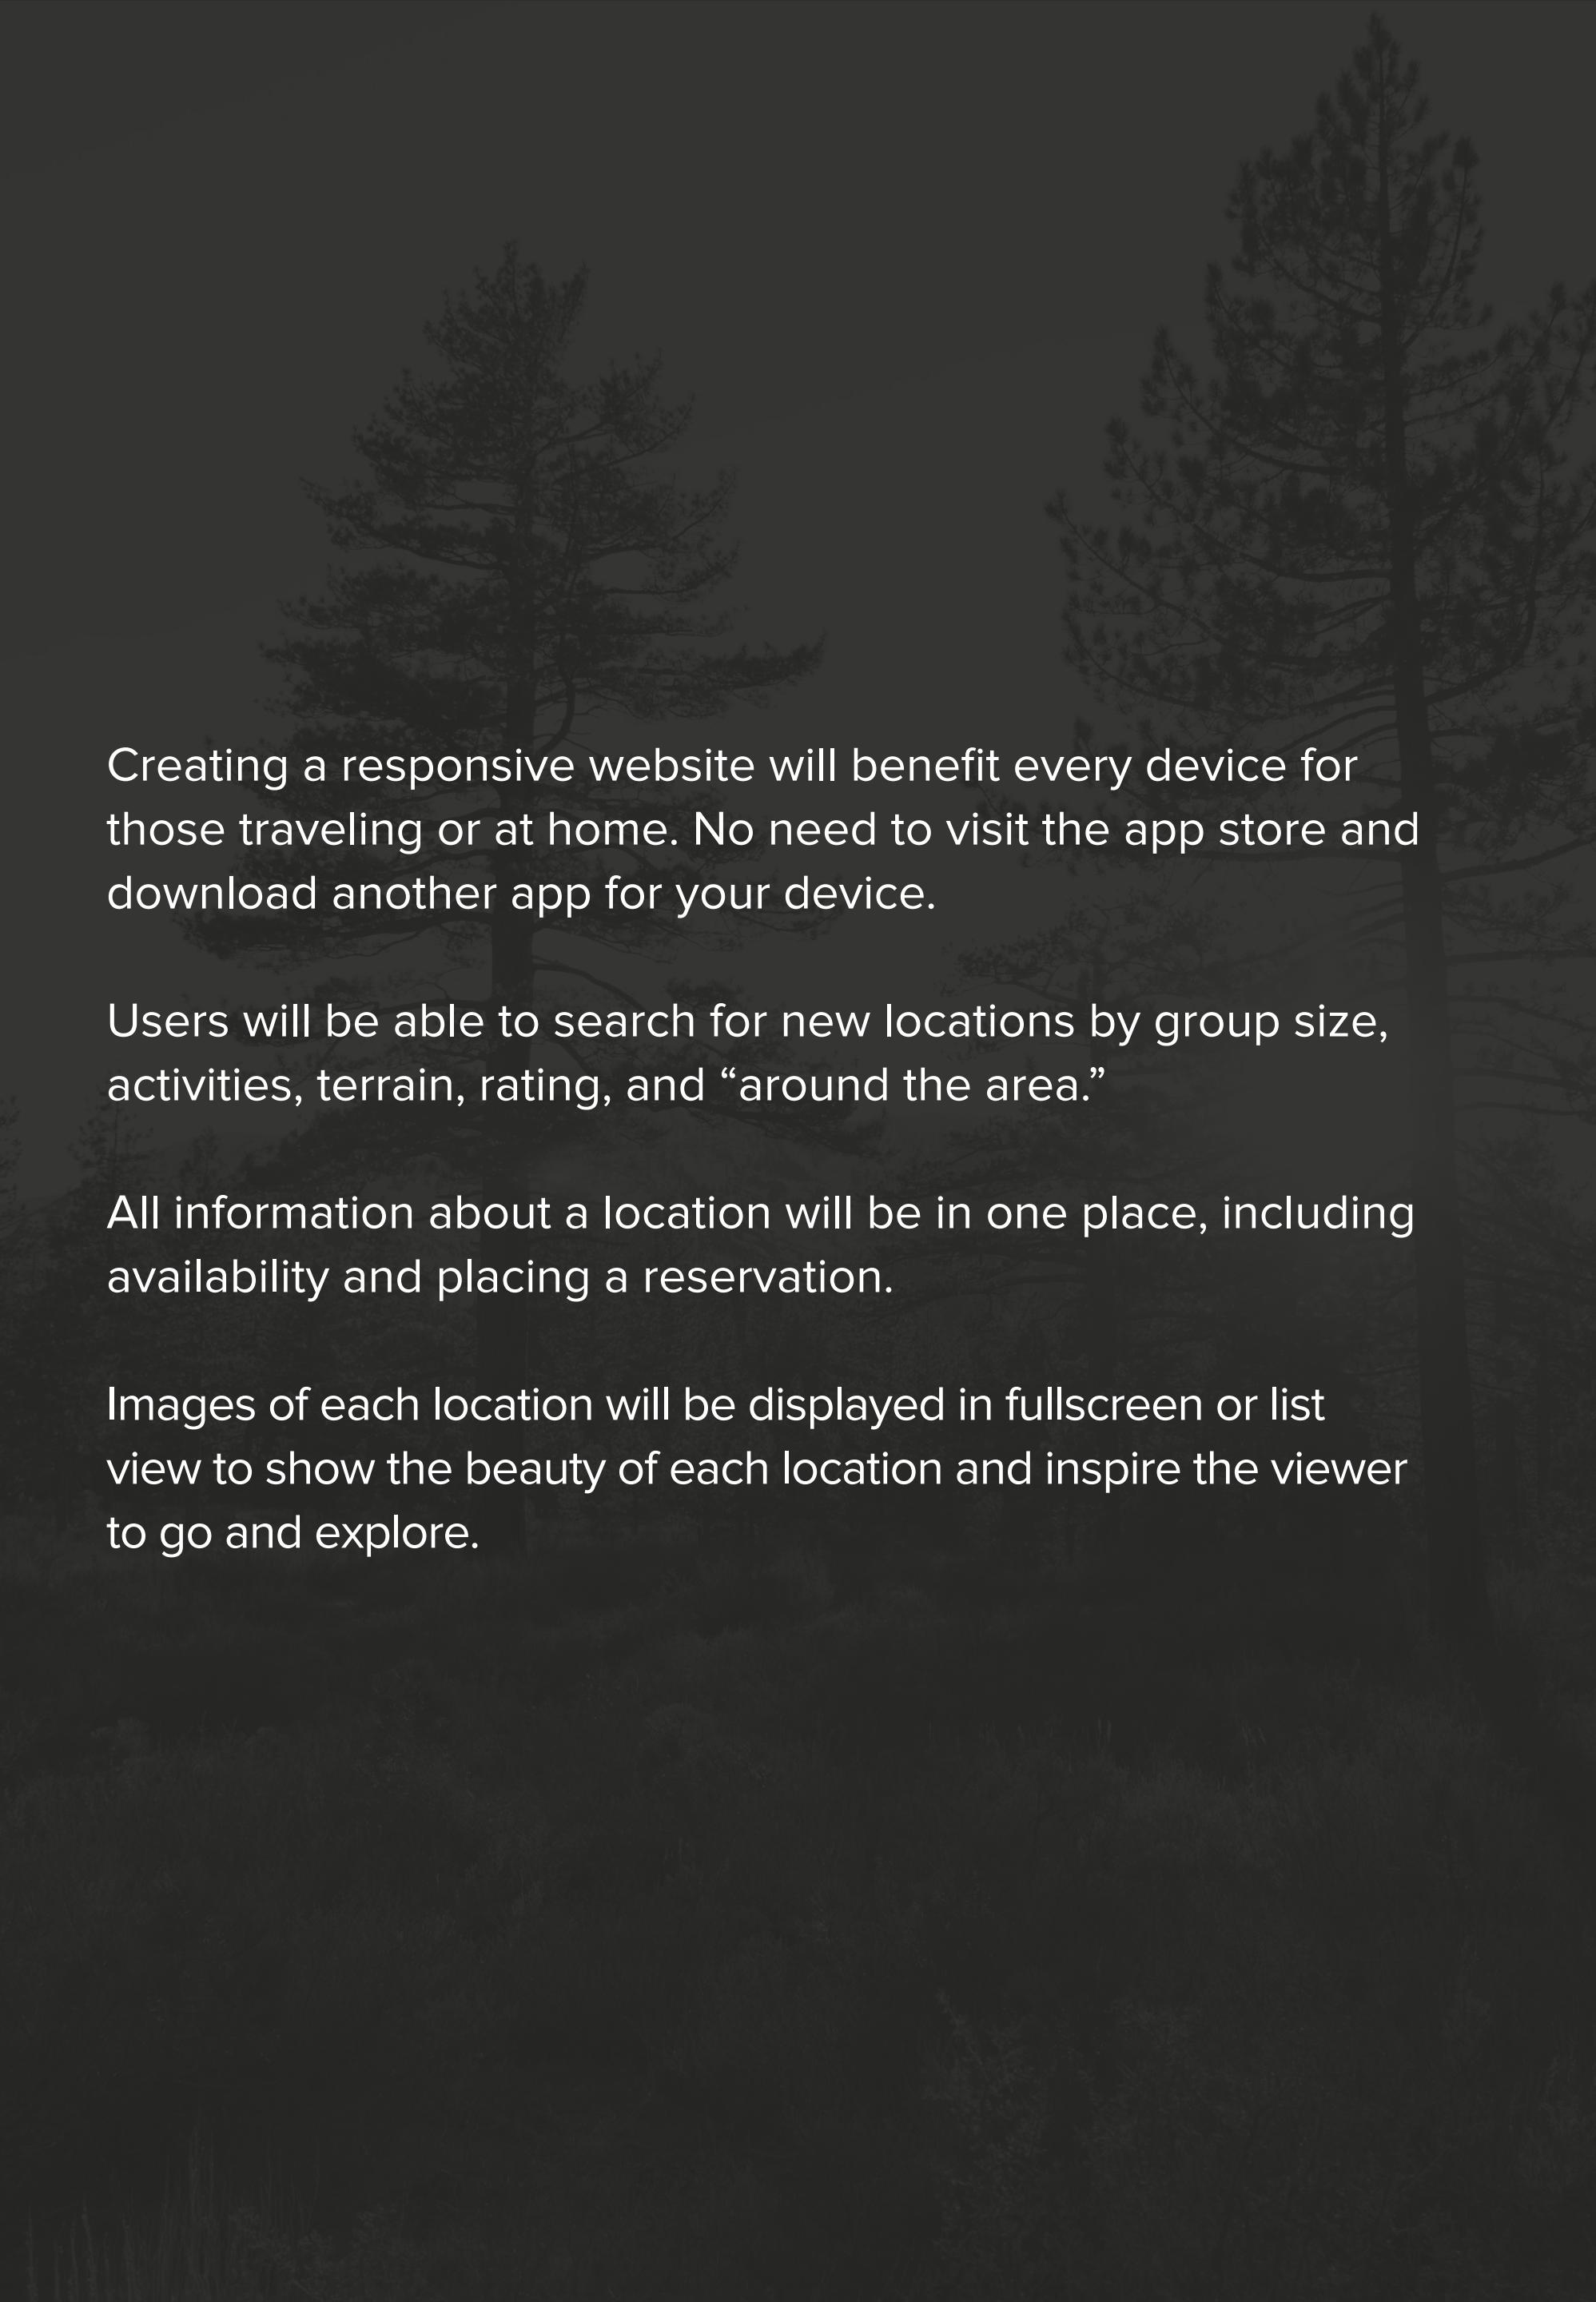

The current camping and hiking search engines on the web are also not user friendly and poorly designed.

Searching through each website individually can be really slow and less productive.

SOLUTION

Create a responsive website to help users decide on a new place to go hiking and camping.

Creating a responsive website will benefit every device for those traveling or at home. No need to visit the app store and download another app for your device.

Users will be able to search for new locations by group size, activities, terrain, rating, and “around the area.”

All information about a location will be in one place, including availability and placing a reservation.

Images of each location will be displayed in fullscreen or list view to show the beauty of each location and inspire the viewer to go and explore.

S.W.O.T

STRENGTHS

- Many results in one place
- Compare different locations
- See reviews from others
- Constant updates on locations
- Publicity for locations
- Mobile & Desktop supported

WEAKNESSES

- May not have all information of locations
- Search results may not be as accurate
- Copyrights needed to publish photos of locations

OPPORTUNITIES

- Jobs for location writers
- Jobs for photographers
- Jobs for online moderators
- Online Community
- Promotes less popular locations

THREATS

- False reviews
- Internet Trolls
- Some locations may not allow publication of their sites

COMPETITIVE ANALYSIS

PROS

- Yelp is one of the most popular search engines to find great local businesses.
- Yelp has a huge community of reviewers from amateurs to professionals.
- Having good reviews can help your business and bring in new customers.
- Anyone can sign up and write a review about a business.
- Yelp is so well known, it became verb. “Yelp it.”

CONS

- Reviews on Yelp can really hurt a business due to its ratings on the system.
- Users can post false information and give a negative review.
- Finding places to camp and hike on Yelp only shows reviews; no detailed information about facilities unless a user writes about it in a review.
- There is no way a user can check the availability of a campsite or make a reservation.
- Yelp links to other sites for “detailed” information, which causes the user to add another tab to their browser.

TARGET MARKET

Venture's target market will be those interested in exploring new places and participating in outdoor experiences.

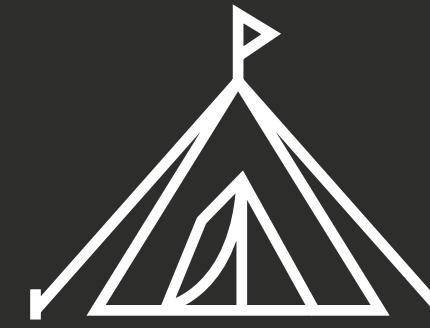

People who own a browser on a device from smartphone to desktop from ages 18-35 years old.

Rock climbers, mountaineers, backpackers, photographers and campers will be targeted specifically, due to their passion for outdoor and recreational activities and experiences.
